

Level 1 Award in Health and Safety in the Workplace

Entry Requirements

This is no prior qualifications required. However It's a legal requirement for employers to provide health and safety training to their staff.

The Level 1 Award in Health and Safety in the Workplace provides a quick, concise and practical starting point from which more detailed training.

Course Content

The level 1 Certificate is designed to make candidates aware of the key health and safety issues and the part that they should play in keeping themselves and others free from harm in the workplace.

The main objectives of the course are:

- Understand the importance of health and safety in the workplace
- Identify the hazards and risks related in the workplace
- Understand workplace health and safety procedures

Suitability

The qualification has been designed to meet the needs of those who are entering the workplace for the first time, either as part of a work experience programme or at the start of employment, by providing an awareness of key health and safety issues and the part that they should play in keeping themselves and others free from harm at work. It will also benefit those who are starting a new job – as part of an induction programme.

Structure

This ground breaking qualification is set to change the way companies consider health and safety. This half day qualification acts as a punchy outline of the basics of health and safety that will protect both the candidate and their fellow workers in all areas of employment focusing on:

- The importance of health and safety in the workplace
- Hazards and risks
- Workplace conditions
- Workplace procedures

Assessment

The Level 1 Certificate is knowledge-based and will be assessed by means of an external assessment. Each unit is assessed by means of a 40 question, multi-choice examination.

Duration

Half day programme

What Next?

- CIEH Level 2 Award in Health and Safety in the Workplace
- IOSH Working safely

